INSIDE AMERICA

A High School Film of a different kind - dirty and bizarre, but honest.

SYNOPSIS

1-Line

INSIDE AMERICA gives a blunt view into America's soul, found somewhere between plasma TVs and food stamps.

3-Line

Situated on the Mexican border, Hanna High School is a place of daily tragedies. Cocaine-addicted cheerleaders, patriotic ROTC-students, gang members and Mexican girls in search of a husband, collide in this story. At school, they swear on the American flag, dream of white picket fences and fancy cars, but when they leave reality strikes them like an incurable disease.

100 words

INSIDE AMERICA is a portrait of six High School kids in a small border town in Texas. The American flag is proudly raised at school every morning and the dream of prosperity and freedom is invested in their mind, but the reality is tough; drugs, violence and security at the school gate are a part of the daily routine. The six teenagers fight for their future in between ROTC Class and Home Economics, somehow managing to retain their vitality and dreams.

They have become victims of violent crimes or have died on overusing drugs. Barbara knows what it means to live in Brownsville. She knows the people and their tragedies. Telling their stories has become an indispensable mission for her. Or, like someone from Brownsville said: "It was about time somebody made a story on us."
